BRIEF LOCALS.

Gleanings of City and Provincial News in Condensed Form.

—There were two drunks before Magistrate Macrae this morning. One was fined $5, and in default twelve days in jail and the other ditto or ten days.

—John Haggerty was summoned for not paying the wages of some of his men, but the wages were paid, and when the case was called in the police court this morning it was dismissed.

—The firm of E. G. Anderson & Co., has been dissolved by mutual consent. Mr. Anderson and A. C. Martin, the partners, will each continue in the commission business at the old offices of the firm on Johnson street.

—The case against M. Guttman, summoned for carrying on a fur business without a license, was dismissed in the police court this morning, there being absolutely nothing upon which the defendant could be held.

—The marines from the warships had their physical and battalion drill in the canteen grounds at Esquimalt this afternoon. The band of H. M. S. Royal Arthur furnished the music. The drill lasted for two hours and was a splendid one. A number of spectators were on hand to see it. The bluejackets will drill to-morrow morning, beginning shortly after nine o'clock. There will be several hundred men in line.

—James Peet did not have much of a defence to offer when he stood up in the dock at the police court to answer to the charge of having assaulted an old blind Indian woman. They had formerly lived together for many years, but had separated. Peet had interfered with her and there was a fight. Peet had struck her several times and she defended herself as best she could. Peet was convicted and fined $10, in default of which he will serve a month at hard labor. He said he would not pay the fine, so he will have to take the month.

—The French warship Duguay-Trouin arrived in Esquimalt at 2 o'clock this afternoon and came to anchor off the naval wharf at a buoy ordered to be prepared for her by Rear-Admiral Stephenson. There were the usual salutes, followed by an exchange of courtesies between the officers. The ship had a good trip from San Francisco, where she made quite an extended stay. She is to be placed in the dry dock here, as she is badly in need of a cleaning, and will very likely be here for several days. A description of the ship and her armament has already been given in the Times.

SEVERE EARTHQUAKES.

Houses and Buildings Razed—A Number Killed.

Constantinople, July 11.—Four more earthquakes were experienced here today. The Grand Bazaar and several houses were razed. A hundred and fifty people were buried in the ruins. The number of killed and wounded has not been learned. The shocks were felt in Dejouvali, Price's Island, Prinkapo, Galatea, Stefano, where a number of houses were wrecked. Scores of people were killed. The village of Adabazaar was obliterated. On the island of Halki all the houses were wrecked. A portion of the Ottoman naval college fell, killing six. A priest was killed at the monastry by a portion of the building falling on him.

TROOPS RESTORING ORDER.

They Restore Order in Some Places But Many Roads Are Still Tied Up.

Feared That Strikers Will Attempt to Wreck Trains Sent Out From Sacramento.

Washington, D. C., July 11.—The statement that the presence of the leaders of the Knights of Labor in this city is for the purpose of presenting articles of impeachment against Olney is regarded as a foolish bluff.

General Miles reports Chicago quiet. The night passed without incident.

St. Louis, July 11.—There is practically no change in the railway situation at the Union depot. Passenger trains are arriving and departing on time.

Chicago, July 11.—The General Managers' Association of the railways are handling the usual number of trains. The strike is practically settled.

Springfield, Ill., July 11.—Altgeld last night ordered the army headquarters at Chicago to purchase all the guns of heavy calibre that could be had, for shipment to points he would designate afterwards.

Bellaire, July 11.—The Bellaire Steel and Iron Company have signed the Amalgamated scale and 1500 people will resume work.

New York, July 11.—No action has been taken by the local Knights on Sovereign's order. The secretary of District Assembly No. 49 says they are not likely to go out. At a secret meeting of the Knights of Labor held in Brooklyn this morning it was said that the appeal issued by Sovereign had not yet been received. The secretary said the matter would be discussed and the question of the strike would be decided by a majority vote of the members.

Chicago, July 11.—The brewers last night informed their employers that if the other unions went out they would join them. The breweries were then shut down, but the men were continued on the pay rolls.

Rochester, July 11.—Sovereign's appeal has met with little response here.

Minneapolis, July 11.—The switchmen on the Soo road failed to show up today, and a general tie-up is threatened.

Baltimore, July 11.—It is believed there will be no strike of the Knights here.

Cleveland, July 11.—A telegram has been received from Sovereign by the Knights of Labor countermanding the strike order.

New York, July 11.—Dispatches from a number of cities and towns throughout New England, New York and Pennsylvania say thus far Sovereign's order has fallen flat, no strikes having been inaugurated.

New York, July 11.—It was learned yesterday that several weeks previous to the big strike in the west, the yardmen at the Erie railroad terminus in Jersey City had decided to hold a meeting on July 15th for the purpose of organizing a branch of the A. R. U. The men have changed their minds on the subject, being disgusted by the course of the union and the proposed meeting will not be held. The Erie yardmen declare that they will not have anything to do with the union and will not go on strike.

New Haven, Conn., July 11.—The estimated strength of organized labor is ten thousand. A committee has been appointed to be daily on hand at headquarters awaiting any request for co-operation from President Debs. An official from the Central labor union says 7500 would respond.

Portland, Maine, July 11.—The Boston & Maine trainmen say they are all ready to strike at word from Chicago. Pullman is a prominent director of this road. The officials deny any possibility of a strike. The Maine Central officials claim their employees do not sympathize with the western strikers at all.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 11.—Reports have been received from every Knight of Labor assembly in Luzerne county and all but one say that they will not go out at the request of Sovereign. The assemblies here are mostly made up of miners. Local knights say it would be a ridiculous thing for them to quit work now. "For eight months we had little or no work, now that we have steady work is to our interests to keep at it and that we propose to do."

Washington, July 11.—An important question which is receiving some official consideration here relates to the status of cars of the Pullman company under the [illegible] law. While the problem does not concern the right of the federal authorities to suppress lawlessness and disperse mobs who may be engaged in burning Pullman cars, it may have a bearing upon the use of federal troops in transporting these cars from one state to another. The interstate commerce commission has taken the stand, from the day of its organization, that Pullman cars are no part of interstate commerce. That neither is their general management nor in the arrangement of their rate schedules do they come under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce law. That this understanding has obtained not only in the commission but with the Pullman car company is apparent from the fact that the question has never been raised by the officers of the company nor by any litigation before the commission. "The commission," said Acting Secretary Decker of the commission yesterday, "has held that Pullman car company is not a common carrier chiefly for the reason that it does not operate its own property but simply owns the cars which are hauled about the country by railroad corporations. Its functions are in some respect like those of an express company, which, while performing a certain service for the public, does not do the actual carrying of the commodities which constitute its business.

Scottdale, July 11.—This morning a body of imported negro coke workers fired into marching strikers at the summit. It is reported that eight were shot.

Chicago, July 11.—Up to 10 o'clock today no trouble was reported from Hammond or Spring Valley. All is quiet here and trains are moving with alacrity to and from the stock yards loaded with live stock and beef.

Wall Street, New York, July 11.—Stocks opened 1-8 and 3-4 lower. Sugar, however, was strong at 1 3-8 higher.

Pittsburg, July 11.—No strike of the railroad men has been inaugurated here up to 10 o'clock.

Cleveland, July 11.—The situation is unchanged. The influence of Sovereign's order to the Knights here has not yet developed.

Detroit, July 11.—The strike situation is unchanged. All trains are moving on time.

Chicago, July 11.—The big strike of trades and labor unions is now on here. By Saturday, it is said, one hundred thousand men will be out. As yet the street railway men are at work.

Chicago, Ills., July 11.—Sovereign denies that he had countermanded the order to strike at Cleveland.

Chicago, July 11.—Associate Justice Jackson of the supreme court, is ill in his private car at Louisville. The railroads decline to attempt to move the car unless guaranteed protection by federal troops.

The district attorney denies that Sovereign has been indicted.

New York, July 11.—At the Grand Central station to-day officials reported trains going out and arriving on time.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 11.—No strike has been inaugurated here as yet.

Denver, Col., July 11.—Under the impression that Cleveland's proclamation was a declaration of martial law, all labor organizations in session adjourned before 4 o'clock. Governor Waite has nothing to say regarding the situation. Adjutant-General Tarpsey thought the proclamation was a general usurpation of authority.

Sacramento, July 9.—It is said on reliable authority that [illegible] will reach here to-morrow. The strikers are well armed and any attempts to dislodge them will result in bloodshed. Last Wednesday a number of strikers forced their way into the headquarters of the Bergsileri guards and stole about forty rifles. The arms were taken to the strikers' headquarters and temporarily stored away to be used in case an attempt was made by the regulars to drive them away from the depot.

Sacramento, Cal., July 11.—The regulars sent from San Francisco arrived this morning shortly after six o'clock and achieved a bloodless victory. The troops were landed at the Y street depot and under command of Col. Grahame, marched direct to the depot and took possession. No attempt has been made to concentrate the strikers at that point and there was not the faintest manifestation of hostility on either side. When the soldiers reached the depot there were several groups of strikers in the vicinity but they quietly retreated. A picket line was quickly established about the place and armed sentries placed on duty. The armed comrades sat on the ground inside the lines and faced the throng on the outside. It was apparent that Col. Grahame's command was prepared for any emergency and that strict military discipline would be maintained. It was reported at the depot that Superintendent Filmore intended to make up a regular train with Pullmans and send it out as soon as possible. Everybody was asking what the strikers proposed to do but they could get no information on the subject. The strikers were silent and the people of the city who had expected a battle were surprised at the quiet that prevailed. It was vaguely rumored that the strikers did not propose to permit a train to reach its destination and that there would be an accident on the first that left within half an hour after its departure. At the Knox headquarters it was impossible to obtain information as to the intention of the strikers. "We have resolved to give out no information to-day," was the statement of Knox to the United Press correspondent.

Sacramento, Cal., July 11.—It has been learned that there was an exchange of shots on the Levee between the men of the first battalion of the third infantry, N. G. C., and some sharpshooters of the strikers on the opposite bank of the river. Fifty shots were fired by the militiamen. They are confident they killed none of the strikers.

All the militia with the exception of the Sacramento light battery, two companies of the second infantry and one of the first infantry, are stationed on the east bank of the river for the purpose of protecting the railroad property. General freight trains are on the tracks that extend several blocks down the river and the militiamen are in close proximity to the cars. They were roused from their camps at three a.m. and were ready to march within an hour. Preparations were made to start for the river because it had been reported that an attempt would be made to prevent the landing of regulars. A signal corps was stationed in the dome of the capitol and when the steamer Alameda was sighted the signal was given and General Dickinson gave orders to march. The state troops have been at the river bank ever since and will probably be kept there throughout the day. They observed no sign of hostilities until shortly after the regulars reached the depot when several strikers appeared in the bushes on the opposite side and began shooting. The first to reply was the first battalion of the third regiment and then companies A and B of the first regiment joined in the firing. Bullets whistled over the heads of the militia men and one struck a telegraph wire near Gen. Dickinson's headquarters. About this time several members of the third regiment saw one of the strikers fall and it is believed he was wounded. The supposition is that the strikers thought the militiamen were regulars when they opened fire.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 11.—The proclamation of President Cleveland seems to have been about the same in effect to [illegible] as those issued by the "Aknoond of Swat." If there was any difference in the conduct or attitude of the strikers it was not apparent. Numerous meetings were held last evening and groups gathered around the bulletin boards and halls to discuss the latest phases of the situation. Already considerable suffering has been felt amongst the strikers and last night the local A. R. U. relief committee made ar-

CURRAN BRIDGE FRAUDS.

The Country Deliberately Swindled Out of Considerable Sums of Money.

The Conservative Election Funds Enriched — Turcotte is Whitewashed.

Ottawa, July 11.—There were further disclosures in the public accounts committee to-day in regard to the Curran bridge affair. Frignon, who was timekeeper for the works, was further examined. He testified that he drew about $150 every two weeks upon fictitious names. He did not put the names on the lists, but Villeneuve, chief timekeeper, did so, and St. Louis knew all about it. This money was all used in replenishing the wine room on the works and in securing eatables, carriages, etc. A horse and buggy were also bought for Villeneuve. St. Louis told him that he gave $1000 or $1200 for the Vaudreuil contested election. This was besides the $1500 mentioned yesterday, and which was spent in the election. St. Louis also gave $100 to Tarte's son, who got into a scrape, and $1000 to Dansereau, postmaster of Montreal, for political purposes. St. Louis also gave $500 to Drolet, Montreal, for political purposes. St. Louis, the contractor, was also examined. He knew nothing at all about the books, etc., which he left to the clerks. He said to Haggart that the books were destroyed because he did not want people to see what he contributed to elections.

Haggart stated at the meeting of the public accounts committee to-day that the committee would have to finish to-morrow, because it was intended to prorogue the house on Saturday.

By 16 to 8 the committee on privileges and elections carried a resolution declaring that the charges against Turcotte, M. P., for having violated the independence of parliament act, were not proven. This was Colonel Amyot's motion. A resolution from Dickey asking that the case be postponed because of the civil trial now going on in Quebec for penalties against Turcotte, until next session of parliament, was voted down by 18 to 6. Dickey, Weldon and McCarthy voted against Colonel Amyot's motion and for Amyot's amendment declaring the case proven. Thompson strongly supported Amyot's motion. The case will be reported to the house.

The text of the trade resolution moved in the colonial conference by Hon. G. E. Foster, and seconded by Sir H. Wrixon, is as follows:

"Whereas the stability and progress of the British empire can best be assured by drawing continually closer the bands that unite the colonies with the mother country, and by a continuous growth of a practical sympathy in all that pertains to the common welfare; and

"Whereas this co-operation and unity can in no way be more effectually promoted than by the cultivation and extension of the mutual and profitable exchange of their products; therefore

"Resolved, that this conference records its belief in the advisability of a customs arrangement between Great Britain and the colonies by which trade within the empire may be placed on a more favorable footing than that carried on with foreign countries. Be it further resolved that until the mother country can see her way to enter into customs arrangements with the colonies, it is desirable that when empowered so to do the colonies of Great Britain, or such of them as may be disposed to, accede to this view, take steps to place each other's products in whole or in part on a more favored customs basis than is accorded to like products of foreign countries;

"And be it further resolved, that for the purposes of this resolution the South African customs union be considered as part of the territory capable of being brought within the scope of the contemplated trade arrangements."

A division took place upon the first of the foregoing resolutions, and it was carried, as follows: Yeas, Canada, Tasmania, Cape of Good Hope, South Australia and Victoria. Nays, New South Wales, New Zealand and Queensland.

The tariff changes brought down last night include the prohibition of the importation of spurious or adulterated teas.

Major Hughes proposes to move an amendment to the Northwest Territories bill absolutely prohibiting the formation [illegible]

The French treaty came up in the house yesterday. Hon. Messrs. Foster, Thompson and Tupper made speeches in support of its ratification. Messrs. Edgar, Mills and Laurier were the principal speakers against it. Mrs. O'Brien moved as an amendment that the treaty not seeming to be reciprocal in its results, being more advantageous to France than to Canada, therefore the house does not assent to it. Mr. Edgar sought to add a clause to this amendment stating that Canada had derived no special privileges in St. Pierre, Miquelon. Mr. Edgar's amendment was negatived by 51 to 110. Thirteen Grits voted with the majority. Mr. O'Brien's amendment was defeated by 44 to 128. Two Conservatives were in the minority and 24 Liberals voted with the majority. Mr. Laurier moved an amendment that Canada should on ratifying the treaty either establish a line of steamers to France or notify the French government that it is not its intention to do so. This was negatived by 50 to 109. The second reading was carried by 120 to 41.

Cruiser Chicago Injured.

Antwerp, July 11.—A tank steamer collided with the cruiser Chicago. The Chicago was slightly injured.

STRIKE LEADERS ARRESTED.

President Debs and His Lieutenants Committed by the Grand Jury.

Cleveland's Proclamation Quiets the Mob—Good Effect Among Foreigners.

Chicago, July 9.—The tread of armed men is still heard in Chicago's streets, and the wheels of commerce still lag at the bidding of the American Railway Union. Nevertheless the war cloud which has overhung this city and the whole land for the past ten days shows distinct signs of lifting. Instead of stories of additional railroads being tied up at various points throughout the country, to-day's dispatches, almost without exception, bring advices of strikers returning to work and increased resumption of traffic, amounting in some places to the normal condition. The day in Chicago has passed without a serious conflict between the strikers and the armed guards now on duty here.

The feature of the day was the action early this morning, after an all night session, of the federated trades unions of Chicago in deciding to call out all classes of labor on Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock unless George M. Pullman should have agreed before the meridian of that day to settle the differences between his company and the striking employes by arbitration or otherwise. For reasons not known to the public General Master Workman Sovereign, of the Knights of Labor, and his advisers decided to postpone the general walkout and paralytic stroke which they propose to inflict upon the business of Chicago until seven o'clock Wednesday morning. Another feature to be noted in connection with the meeting of Chicago federatde labor is that in the meeting there was a large conservative element whose action practically blocked the plans of the more hotheaded leaders until the latter, in the excitement consequent on reading President Cleveland's proclamation, were enabled to stampede them and carry the strike resolution. Therefore there is reason to believe that, even if the order for a general strike goes forth, many of those to whom it is directed will decline to obey it, so that, with the men already made idle by the effects of the tie-up, the walkout will not be nearly so important as is anticipated by the leaders. What effect, if any, the action of Vice-President Wicks, of the Pullman company, in refusing in the most positive manner to even meet a committee to consider the question of arbitration, will have upon the final decision of the labor leaders and their followers remains to be seen.

The president's proclamation against the assembling of crowds and advising citizens to absent themselves from mobs or gatherings caused much renewed excitement to-day in Pullman. Forward persons were not slow to claim that the federal authorities had entered into a combination with the Pullman interests to prevent the open air meetings that have been a feature in the town.

A special agent of the treasury department has sent a report to the department stating that among the trains burned in the railway yards were many containing goods which were in bond to the government, being in transit from the port of New York and other ports to the Chicago custom-house.

Nearly a thousand militiamen arrived in Hammond to-day. They were from the Second, Third and Fourth regiments of Indiana troops. Soon after their arrival the United States troops were ordered away, and left for Chicago.

The effects of the strike on railroad traffic are plainly perceptible. Shipments fell off from 42,967 tons the previous week and 45,973 tons for the corresponding week last year to 11,664 tons last week.

Danville, Ill., July 9.—Mrs. Michael Glenn and Miss Clara James were killed and an unknown man mortally wounded at Westville this afternoon by a volley fired over the heads of a crowd of rioting miners by a company of militia. The miners had been rioting in the vicinity since yesterday afternoon. During last night a number of cars were destroyed in East Illinois yards. When the wreckage had been cleared the inbound passenger train proceeded without molestation until Westville was reached. When it stopped there it was surrounded by a crowd of miners and held. Word was telegraphed to Danville and a special train and a company of state troops started at once for the scene of the trouble. About one mile from Westville a large crowd of miners had collected, and upon the approach of the train bearing the militia began warlike demonstrations. Pistols were fired at the troops, who returned the fire, shooting from the train over the heads of the mob, intending to scare them.

Miss Clara James, 17 years old, was standing in the doorway of her home. A bullet struck her just below the right breast, and she died almost instantly. Mrs. Michael Glenn, standing in her own yard, was also struck, and died in five minutes. An unknown man received a mortal wound, and will die. The militia then left the train and charged the crowd, securing three prisoners. After this the crowd dispersed and no further resistance was offered the troops, who returned to the train, which had been coupled in front of the passenger. The trip to Danville was made without any further incident.

Chicago, July 10.—There is no disguising the fact that the local situation to-night in the labor troubles is graver than it has been at any time for the last two weeks. The A. R. U. issued its boycott against the rolling stock of the Pullman Car Company with the view of enforcing the demands of the strikers at the town of Pullman. Although to some extent, it had been anticipated, the arrest of President Debs and his associates was the sensation of the day. The president of the A. R. U. was brought in quietly. The federal grand jury, composed almost entirely of out-of-town residents, occupied less time than had been expected in reaching the decision that the evidence presented for its consideration was sufficient to justify the return of the bill against the leaders of the union. No other result had been expected by those who listened to the charge of Judge Grosscup. He emphatically took the grounds that while the right of labor to organize could not be successfully attacked, that while it was the imperishable right of a free man to work or quit work as he saw fit, and that while, moreover, he was entitled to all the fruits of his labor and to abstention from work, yet at the same time trades organizations are subject to the same laws as other organizations, that their leaders are also subject to the same laws governing all other men, and that no organizations or the leaders of such organizations could with impunity violate the laws enacted for the government of interstate commerce or the protection of the mails. It was a memorable scene when, looking straight ahead with fingers uplifted speaking in a clear-cut tone, as though he would drive his words like a dagger of steel into the hearts of the jury men, Judge Grosscup said that the present emergency was to vindicate the law, and that only, and if that law had been violated, there should be quick, prompt and adequate indictment. When the jury turned towards its chamber, there was not a man within reach of the judge's voice who had not already made up his mind that a return of the indictments against the leaders of the union would be as quick and as prompt as those responsible for the putting into opperation of the machinery of the federal courts could possibly desire.

Organized labor was, however, prompt to strike back at the least manifestation of federal power and authority. When news of the indictment reached labor headquarters, the committee appointed by the trades and labor associations of the city to urge upon the Pullman company the desirability of submitting the dispute with the employees to arbitration, signed the order calling out every union man in Chicago from midnight. Almost before the ink was dry upon this document, Grand Master Workman Sovereign of the Knights of Labor placed the official seal of the order upon a manifesto addressed to the members of the organization throughout the country declaring that a crisis had been reached in the affairs of the nation that endangered the peace of the republic, that the flames of discord were being purposely fanned by the railroad corporations at the risk of the life of the government, and appealing to the order and through it to the whole people to lay the implements of toil down for a short season, and under the banner of peace, with a patriotic impulse, to create through peaceful assemblages a healthy public sentiment in favor of the amicable settlement of the issues involved.

The manifesto specially requested the membership not to return to its usual avocations until a settlement of the pending trouble has been made known through authentic sources. This order, or request, or whatever it might properly be designated was wired at once to the officers of every district assembly throughout the country with instructions looking to its immediate transmission to the executive boards of each local assembly. The organization of the knights and its means of communicating with the individual members is so perfect that it was the opinion at headquarters that every knight of labor in the land would be made acquainted with the ultimatum by midnight. District Assembly No. 24, representing every local assembly in Chicago and surrounding towns, was the first to respond to the executive appeal, and this evening by a formal resolution it declared it the duty of all members of the order to refrain from congregating in crowds upon the streets, and to use every endeavor to maintain peace and order in the community.

Around town the news of the arrests, while it intensified the strained feeling already referred to, failed to produce any pronounced manifestations either of approval or indignation. People who had been assuring one another that the arrest of Mr. Debs would be a signal for a movement by the masses upon the building in which he might be temporarily confined, proved themselves false prophets.

Chicago, July 10.—It is admitted on all sides that the proclamation issued at midnight by President Cleveland has done more toward clearing the atmosphere and bringing the mob element to a sense of its responsibility than could have been accomplished by all the self-projected conciliation and mediation committees in a month. The proclamation was printed in the Polish, Bohemian and English languages, on a broad sheet, and distributed by the tens of thousands among the Polish-Bohemian element. It was hard for the foreigners to comprehend its technical purpose, but the very fact that it was a proclamation of the president of the United States had about the same effect as the sign manual of the czar upon an ukase addressed to the residents of some interior town in Russia or Poland. Men and women of determined character and desperate inclinations, and who on Saturday when the conflict with the militia occurred, would have rended their antagonists limb from limb but for the sure aim of the rifles and the prodding of the bayonets, concluded that it would be better to remain indoors. What in other districts the combined forces of regulars, state militia, United States marshals and city police had been unable to accomplish with bayonets, pistols and regulation guns, was brought about in the twinkling of an eye when the foreigners had digested the appeal of President Cleveland.

John Ryan, Deb's lieutenant, has gone east from Chicago to try and set up ill feeling among the railroad men of New York and Boston.

The Pittsburg & Western trainmen have refused to obey Deb's order to strike.

London, July 10.—The Chicago express on the Grand Trunk passed here last night, being the second train through since the strike began.

Winnipeg, July 10.—There is little change in the Northern Pacific strike situation here. The men are still out, but the regular passenger train to St. Paul left as usual, being the first train to depart since Friday.

Cleveland, July 10.—A train was sent west to-day over the Nickel Plate. Two freights came in this morning.

Buffalo, July 10.—The probability of a strike in Buffalo grows less hourly. The railroad officials express the belief that there will be no strike here. Mails are nearly on schedule to-day.

Detroit, July 10.—All striking employes of the Union Station Association, whose tracks are used by several railroads, have returned to work, and everything is going smoothly.

Cincinnati, July 10.—Resolutions were adopted at a meeting of trades unions last night endorsing the strike and denouncing President Cleveland. Railroads all report an improved outlook.

Hammond, Ind., July 10.—Incendiaries last night fired and burned the trestle of the Monon road over Calumet river south of here. Traffic on the line is blocked. Militiamen are now patrolling the 1000 foot trestle of the Erie and Nickel Plate over the Calumet. The company of regulars who did the shooting on Sunday made a flying trip to this city from Chicago early this morning. On being informed that their services were not needed they returned to Chicago.

Chicago, July 10.—The marine engineers say they will not strike. The seamen's union has decided to strike.

New York, July 10.—President Gompers and Secretary Evans of the Federation of Labor will leave for Chicago to-night to attend a meeting on Thursday of the executive council of the federation. Gompers was non-committal with regard to the prospects of a general strike.

New York, July 10.—The strike is already beginning to seriously affect the transatlantic freight business. Shipments of cattle have greatly fallen off.

Spokane, July 9.—The scene of the strike trouble has been transferred to Sprague and Hope, Idaho. A special to-day from the former town, where the Northern Pacific car shops are located, says: Never has this peaceful town before know half so wild a night. Early in the evening the trouble began, and when the special train bearing the militia arrived at 1 p. m. pandemonium broke loose. Only daylight brought back partial order. Wrecked engines, splintered cars, blazing bridges, falling telegraph poles are only a few signs of the night's terrible work. Long before the special train arrived three box cars were run from the switches on the main track and ditched across the path of the coming train. A gang of hoodlums gathered along the line of the railway track, placed signal torpedoes at the first crossing and waited. At 11 o'clock the train came in sight, creeping along at a snail's pace, as if fearing danger. At the crossing the torpedoes exploded and the engine stopped. The gang hooted, and before the engineer could pull the throttle again a shower of stones came from the mob, smashing the cab windows and wounding the engineer.

A PROFESSIONAL FROGGER.

The Odd Business Carried On by a Boston Capitalist.

An old man in Cambridge, Mass., who supplies the Boston hotels with frogs, gives a quaint account of how he contrives to make a living out of the business. He has been engaged in it for fifty years and has arranged in his cellar a frog preserve. It consists of a trough about three feet deep and the same width running the length of the cellar. Along the edges stones have been set, between which the grass springs up, and here the frogs disport themselves when they emerge from the water which flows through the trough. Sometimes the old man has as many as two thousand frogs in his cellar waiting for the market. A few years ago he could make $10 a day at his peculiar industry, but the "amateur froggers," as he calls them, have cut down his profits materially. His field of operations is in the townships of Belmont, Waltham, Lexington and Woburn, in the marshes of which he takes the frogs in a scoop net, unless they are wanted for immediate consumption, in which case he shoots them with a Flobert rifle. He guards jealously the secret of the food which he gives the boarders in his cellar to keep them plump and tender. "It cost me a good many frogs to find it out," he says, "and I'm not going to give it away in a hurry." The old man, besides supplying the hotels, supplies frogs to scientific men, shipping them even to England and Germany.—New York Post.

PRESIDENT DEBS.

The Man Who Has Caused Much of the Trouble in the United States.

Eugene V. Debs was born at Terre Haute, Ind., November 5th, 1855, and still lives there. His father, an Alsatian, is a well-to-do groceryman. Young Debs attended the public schools and business college, also assisting his father in the store. In May, 1870, he commenced work in the Vandalia paint shops in Terre Haute, where he continued about 20 months, until, when only 16 years of age, he was given a position as fireman on a Vandalia engine, running between Indianapolis and Terre Haute. He held the position a little over three years, when he left it to accept a position in a wholesale house, in which he remained until 1879, when he was elected city clerk of Terre Haute on the Democratic ticket, running 1100 votes ahead of his ticket. He was re-elected at the end of his first term by a majority of 1102, being one of only two Democrats elected in the city. Prior to his election as city clerk of Terre Haute he had joined Vioga lodge, No. 16, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, at Terre Haute, and represented his lodge at national convention of the brotherhood at Indianapolis in 1877. In 1878 he was again delegate and assistant secretary of the convention of locomotive firemen held in Buffalo. This convention elected him associate editor of the Locomotive Firemen's Magazine, the official organ of the order. In 1880, when only 25 years of age, he was appointed grand secretary and treasurer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, which position he held continuously for 12 years, when he retired, it was said because he was dissatisfied with the management of the brotherhood's affairs by some of the other officers. At the time of Debs' appointment as grand secretary and treasurer of the order, it was without a dollar and $6000 in debt. There were 60 lodges with a total membership of less than 2000, many of them disorganized and their members disheartened. The order from that time on grew rapidly, the debt was soon paid off, the poorly organized lodges were put on their feet again, and when he retired from the position there were nearly 500 splendidly organized lodges with 30,000 members. In 1885 Mr. Debs was a Democratic member of the Indiana legislature.

In 1893 Mr. Debs, who had been studying the labor question for many years, set about the organization of a union that should take in all railroad employees. The result was the formation of the American Railway Union, which was first heard of conspicuously when it tied up the Great Northern railroad a few months ago. The chiefs of the older brotherhoods wished to see the new union lose that strike, just as now they pray for the union's defeat in the Pullman boycott; but James J. Hill was thoroughly defeated, and conceded everything the strikers demanded. The subsequent organization of Pullman's striking employees in the A. R. U., and the boycott that followed are familiar to everyone. Mr. Debs is a populist and believes in the state ownership of railways.

Mr. Debs is more than six feet tall and of striking appearance. He is married and has a pleasant home in Terre Haute. Robert G. Ingersoll and James Whitcomb Riley are his intimate friends. Debs made the speech in the Indiana house re-nominating Senator Voorhees.

MRS. GORDON BAILLIE.

Remarkable Career of a Clever Adventuress.

The committal of Mrs. Annie Frost, alias Mrs. Gordon Baillie, on Friday last on a charge of fraud, has revived the interest shown a few years ago in this remarkable adventuress, says Black and White. Her career has been of an extraordinary description. Mary Ann Sutherland, our heroine, was born in Peterhead, in the north of Scotland, in 1848. Her mother was the daughter of a carter in Peterhead, and travelled about the district with a man named Sutherland who dealt in pork and other delicacies. Mary Ann in after years claimed to be highly connected, and spent her early days in the Buchan district, "travelling" with her mother to Dundee. Presently she appeared in Peterhead and Aberdeen as a Bible woman. She was a very active revivalist, and was considered a woman of great piety, attending and addressing religious meetings. She is described at that time as being of very prepossessing appearance, having a good figure, pretty eyes and pale complexion. In 1869 she managed in some way to reach Rome, Turin and Paris, and returned to Dundee in 1872, where she started a career which fittingly closed in Perth penitentiary. On her release Edinburgh became her headquarters until she fled to London and took a large house in St. James Terrace, Regent's park, and Miss Ogilvy Bruce—that was her new name—could be seen driving along ever day in a carriage and pair. The lavishly furnished house in St. James' Terrace had been secured on the same plan as that adopted in Dundee in 1872, and three months exhausted the possibilities of the metropolis in this direction. The lady's next exploit was the renting of a mansion and shootings in the highlands at Monlack, near Beauly, at a rent of £300 for the six months. Accompanied by a young man in the capacity of a "private secretary"—her former private secretary was at this time undergoing penal servitude—Miss Bruce put herself in communication with the leading firms in Inverness who cater for the wants of sportsmen and tourists during their brief stay in the Highlands, and cellar and wardrobe were furnished with the best. Here she lived a fashionable life, priding herself on her Highland ancestors, producing the broadsword of her sires for the edification of her visitors, and to show her admiration for the manners and customs of those among whom she had taken up her abode, she on special occasions donned the kilt and philaty, with Glengarry bonnet and the Bruce crest. But this life, without the necessary funds, could not last forever. Tradesmen were pressing for their money and, of course, the lady again suddenly disappeared, leaving a train of bills as a memorial of her brief but memorable sojourn in the Highlands. Several huge heavy boxes were embarqued at the railway station by the landlord of the house and shootings; but their fair owner, driven over in a smart dog-cart, managed to step into the London train at another station on the line. The landlord, with thoughts of jewelry and plate, opened the boxes he had captured, to find them filled with bricks and straw.

We next hear of our heroine on January 30, 1877, in a magisterial enquiry at the Mansion House, respecting charges against one Kate Miller, who was brought up on a warrant which included the name of Miss Bruce, not in custody—she had bolted to America—accused of conspiracy to defraud a number of merchants of their wares and obtaining £3000 from a Mrs. Graham under false pretences. During the examination it appeared that an old baronet (now deceased) had assisted Miss Bruce to the extent of £5000. In the Times of February 21, 1877, there is a continued account of the inquiry, where it is disclosed that Miss Bruce had passed as the daughter of an earl, and that on November 1, 1876, she had been married to a Thomas Whyte, otherwise Knight Aston, an operatic singer. The doings of the lady from this date till 1888 are not on record, except that she made a tour in America, Australia and New Zealand, carrying on her old pursuits in Melbourne and elsewhere. In 1885 she must have been in London, as on May 19th she figured as a Greek maiden in the opening tableaux at the Artists' Costume Ball at Prince's Hall, at which the Prince and Princess of Wales and other members of the royal family were present. She next appeared in Scotland as "the Crofters' Friend," under the name of Mrs. Gordon Baillie, and collected subscriptions on their behalf. The Edinburgh Evening Dispatch unearthed her previous history, and its exposure of the adventuress caused a great sensation at the time. Edinburgh became too hot for her, for she victimized many townsmen and bigwigs in the city—including no less a personage than Professor Blackie, who afterward declared that such a witch of a woman would cheat the devil himself. London was again favored with Miss Bruce's patronage, and under the name of Mrs. Annie Frost she was charged on October 23, 1888, with a certain R. P. B. Frost, at the Central Criminal court with conspiring to obtain goods by false pretences. The female prisoner had been representing that she was the owner of vast estates in Australia and engaged in an extensive scheme of emigration to these estates and to Australia generally, from the agricultural districts of the United Kingdom—particularly from the Crofters' districts of Scotland. Inspector Marshal gave a history of her career to the court and stated that she had assumed no less than 40 names. He had complaints from all parts of the continent about the prisoner—from Turin (where she had undergone imprisonment), Florence, Rome, Brussels, etc., from all parts of Scotland, as well as Australia and New Zealand, from which she had returned on the 1st of November, 1887, to Broadstairs, taking a house there with the prisoner Frost. She was sentenced to five years' penal servitude, and, as her sentence only expired in October last, she has not lost much time in renewing operations. She once declared, in the writer's hearing, that any great disappointment would send her into the cloister. A prison, however, seems to be the residence preferred by this hroine.

FACIAL EXPRESSION.

Mental and Moral Traits Reflected in the Features.

We naturally look at a young face for a prophecy and at an old one for a record. But the materials from which we attempt to inform ourselves are of a very different character in the two classes. In the one case we see a general arrangement of features, which, according to some utterly inscrutable law, accompany certain traits of mental and moral character. No satisfactory theory has ever been put forward to account for such facts as that human beings with a certain inherited squareness of jaw are always of a tenacious disposition.

But when we scrutinize an older face we peruse the linear inscriptions upon its surface as we read a book of which we know the author. Not only do such and such conformations of its lines have a definite meaning, but we can form an opinion as to why and when, if not how, they were written.

The caligraphy, of course, is not uniform in all cases, and there are various complexities about it which may render an exact interpretation a matter of difficulty. Trouble or passion, which in one instance is recorded in bold characters, in another may leave scarcely a visible mark, and it is obvious that a lean face will betray the story of emotional experience more readily than one covered with a mask of fat and smooth skin.—Blackwood's Magazine.

"Be sure you get Ayer's" is an important caution to all in search of a thoroughly reliable blood-purifier, Ayer's Sarsaparilla being the one on which there can be no manner of doubt. It has stood the test of nearly half a century, and has long been considered the standard.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Of course you have heard of MASTIFF PLUG CUT, but have you tried it yourself? It is making new friends every day, indeed it disappoints nobody. It is always even better than people expect.

Its points of superiority are—lightness, strength, conductivity, and perfect adaptation, thus giving it all the advantages of an all gold plate with none of its disadvantages, and at a price within the reach of all. To examine a specimen plate will convince at once the truth of the above assertions. All dental work performed carefully and skilfully. Teeth extracted absolutely without pain by the use of a local anaesthetic. my17-6-w

The story of Fosterian tariff reform as told in this summary is easy to read. After an elaborate tour of investigation and consultation the finance minister started on the work of tariff reform with a bold flourish of trumpets. There were no very radical changes in the tariff bill as he announced it in his budget, but even the moderate changes proposed were too much for the red parlor, and down upon the capital the deputations poured. The result may be plainly seen in the alterations effected while the bill was passing through the house. No man need expect real tariff reform while we have a government that lives under the thumb of the red parlor.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Colonist emits a doleful whine because we condemned its hypocrisy in the matter of bribery with public money. Our worthy neighbor admits now its guilt. Confess and it would not be punished.

The proposition to the city by the Sayward Mill Company, in the matter of electric lighting, is published on the 7th page of this issue. From a casual reading of the company's letter, it would appear that the offer was on the whole a favorable one.

The Ottawa ministers were guilty of a rather marked breach of good manners in connection with the banquet to the colonial delegates. An Ottawa correspondent thus writes of it:

"The facts with reference to the slighting of the Liberals in connection with the opening ceremonies of the colonial conference are as follows: "At the official reception in the senate chamber Sir John Thompson was the only speaker besides the delegates. The programme for the banquet in the evening, as drawn up by the government, excluded the Liberals from any recognition as a body. The banquet, Sir John Thompson said, was given by parliament and the Liberals thought it unfair that one of the leaders of parliament should be persistently ignored by the government who had the arrangement of the programme. They, therefore, intimated that if Mr. Laurier, as their leader, was not to be given an opportunity of speaking they would stay away from the dinner. Their resentment reached the ears of the government and at the last moment they arranged for the toast of the Dominion parliament, to which Sir John Thompson and Mr. Laurier responded."

Since the attitude of the strikers in the States came to mean a defiance of federal law and authority the federal government could do nothing else than exercise all its power towards suppression of the contumacy. In all likelihood the power will be sufficient, and none who wish well to the country could feel disapproval of measures intended to restore order. But the nation will have to do something more than put down the lawlessness that has grown out of this strike. The grave industrial disorders that have caused the country so much loss during the past few months are symptoms of a disease that cannot be cured by mere suppressive measures. Unless a remedy can be applied to the root of the disorder a recurrence of the trouble in some form will be certain, further sapping the strength and threatening even the life of the nation. One might think that at this late day a country which prides itself on its advanced statesmanship would be able to find some practical way of harmonizing the interests of the employers and workers when they conflict, and thus avoid the frequent resort to the strike method, which is so frightfully expensive to all parties concerned.

Sanford Suicides.

Chicago, July 11.—Vice-President Sanford of the National Linseed Oil Company committed suicide to-day by shooting.

TEN THOUSAND TROOPS.

Japan Lands Ten Thousad Soldiers in Korea and Will Stay There

Until Her Terms Are Conceded—Great Gathering of Newspaper Men.

London, July 11.—Advices from Tokio say that Japan has landed ten thousand troops in Korea and will shortly reinforce them. Japan positively refuses to withdraw them except on her own terms.

Antwerp, July 11.—Several hundred delegates, representing Belgium, United States, France, Germany, Italy, Switzerland, Austria-Hungary, Denmark, Holland, Great Britain and the Australian colonies, participated this morning in the formal opening of the business sessions of the first International Congress of the Newspaper Press. The gathering was called to order by A. Goemaere-De Keyser, president of the association of the press in Belgium, while Jean Boucherij, a prominent Belgian journalist, was designated as general secretary pro tem. Among the leading delegates were Victor Gantier, of Berlin; Herbert Cornish, secretary of the National Institute of Journalists, of London; Gaston Bezardi, of Paris, director of the Independence Belge, Alonzo de Bezada, of Madrid, and a member of the Spanish Cortes; M. Sourvine, of St. Petersburg, director of the Nouveau Temps; M. Secretain, the eminent Swiss journalist, and president of the Switzerland Editorial Association; M. Castersin, of Copenhagen, president of the Denmark Journalists' League; M. L. Maghalaes-Lima, editor of the Seculo, of Lisbon; J. P. Holland, of Chicago; M. Wirth, the famous editor of the Meue Freie Presse, of Vienna; and M. Torrell-Viollier, of Milan, Italy; Prince Cassano, of Paris, M. Malie, editor of the Courrier de Bruxelles; M. Sicard, editor of the Etolle Belge. After the credentials had been scrutinized and reported, it was decided that the congress should not sit in groups or sections, but that each meeting should be composed of the full general assembly. The congress decided to take up as the first order of the day the consideration of details concerning the organization of press associations in different countries of the world and of means of establishing friendly relations between them. The following was submitted as a basis upon which a committee should present resolutions: Establishment of regular and permanent connection between the presse associations of different countries, not only in regard to exchange of documents bearing upon newspaper work, but also in regard to reciprocal advantages to be afforded to each other, such, for instance, as rendering professional assistance to brother Journalists who, temporarily engaged abroad, may require such assistance, or who from sickness may be unable to perform their professional duties; the establishment in a neutral country of an international committee, entrusted with the duty of publishing a periodical organ of the association of the newspaper press, and which shall chronicle all facts interesting to journalists in general. There was a reception of the congress in the ancient building reconstructed for the burgomaster and the municipal council, from the windows of which the delegates witnessed a grand archaeological entertainment in that part of the Antwerp exhibition known as "Old Antwerp."

HAWAII'S FINANCE MINISTER.

The Visit of Hon. S. M. Damon to the Coast—What He Says.

Hon. S. M. Damon, minister of finance in the provisional government of Hawaii, who arrived here on the Warrimoo, left for Seattle on the Rosalie this morning. He will only remain there to-night, leaving to-morrow on the steamship Walla Walla. Mr. Damon was seen last evening by a Times reporter but did not have much to say when it comes to interviewing. Mr. Damon is a diplomat not a financier. He denied that he had anything to accomplish for the Hawaiian government in coming to the coast. "You know," said he, "I am a banker and am on my way to San Francisco to meet my partner, Mr. Bishop. As far as I know, I am to have the same post in the republic of Hawaii, but it is hard to say how long I will hold it. The plans for the promulgation of the constitution have been made public and I have no doubt that they were carried out. There was a feeling that there might possibly be trouble but every effort was made to guard against it."

Mr. Damon expressed the hope that the Pacific cable would be built and said he hoped the Canadian-Australian line would prosper.

Survivors of the Allan.

Washington, D. C., July 11.—Captain Healey, of the cutter Bear, in his report of the rescue of the crew of the wrecked schooner James Allan, from Cerusk Island, Alaska, on June 14th, says that when the Bear arrived the survivors were starving and had devoured the body of one of their mates, who had died several days before the rescue.

Scroggs went off to her and saved all the property of any value that was on the sloop. Some of it was wet, but not damaged to any material extent. It now appears that the Petrel was at anchor, but did not hold and was driven on the rocks.

—Charles S. Fee, general passenger and ticket agent of the Northern Pacific, with headquarters at St. Paul, was in the city for a few hours last evening, leaving on the Charmer for Vancouver. Mr. Fee is a very affable gentleman, and has shown great ability in the railroad business. He will probably return here before going home.

—The Mining and Scientific Press says the Alaska Treadwell Gold Mining company of Douglas Island, Alaska, has declared a bonus dividend of 75 cents per share, or $150,000. The Treadwell mine originally cost the man after whom it was named, $150. About $800,000 has been spent developing the mine; $300,000 was spent experimenting with chlorination. About 600 tons of ore is milled daily, at an average cost of $1.25 a ton. The ore averages in value $3 a ton. The company is said to have refused $16,000,000 for the mine. It is thought that there is nearly $25,000,000 in sight.

—R. P. Rithet & Co., limited, in their monthly freight and shipping report say: Business continues limited in volume and dull in tone. This has naturally been reflected in the freight market during the month just passed, and rates are in some instances decidedly weaker, notably to the United Kingdom. At the close there has been quite unusual activity in grain chartering, and a number of vessels have been fixed at 25s. to Cork for orders. In the lumber market a fairly satisfactory business has been done at about previous rates. Suitable tonnage is scarce, which checks any downward tendency there may be. Several signs are apparent of a revival in Australia, and it is to be hoped these will continue to be manifested.

—Victoria has lost a picturesque character. He was an amiable old gentleman who came here from Washington to watch the smugglers. He was well prepared to watch them for he had a huge pair of opera glasses. When the first rays of the rising sun kissed the snow of the Olympics every morning the old gentleman's heroic outlines might be seen high on the Beacon Hill bluffs, scanning with careful eye the broad expanse of water, and then when night attired the city in conventional black the old man might have been seen creeping stealthily through lonely alleyways. His trusty revolver was clearly visible through his tightly buttoned frock coat. His Winchester was carried in a case. On the streets he peered into the faces of passersby with an I-am-a-detective-look. Suspicion of him soon gave way to amusement. It is said that beyond filing some hysterical reports with the department he never accomplished anything. Such watch dogs are beacon lights to smugglers.

SUICIDE OF A PIONEER.

The Cause for the Act is Not Apparent—Deed Committed During the Night.

George Fairbrother, president of the St. George's Society, ended his life some time last night by cutting his throat with a carving knife. The lifeless body was found to-day at noon in a sleeping apartment in the rear of the Lion brewery saloon at Spring Ridge, of which the deceased was proprietor. The body was found by a customer of the place, who entered to get some beer. There was no one on hand to serve him, and he went to the rear to find Mr. Fairbrother. He looked through the window of his sleeping apartment and a rather ghastly sight met his gaze. The body of Fairbrother, attired only in his underclothing, lay on the floor. In plain view was a great wound in the throat, while at his side lay a long carving knife stained with blood. A great pool of blood covered the floor near the body. There was a lamp burning in the room, and it is likely the only evedence of the time that the deed was committed. The oil was burned well down, and the lamp had likely burned nearly all night.

The case was reported to the police, and Chief Sheppard detailed Officers Palmer and McKay to take charge. They went to the house, but made no search, as it was not known whether any letter was left or not. The latter officer was left to watch the place, while the former reported to the coroner and began preparations for an inquest, which was set for 3.30 o'clock, and is now going on. There is no definite cause for the act known, but it is said that the man had been drinking. One of the police constables said that Fairbrother had complained to him about the poor state of trade.

The news was a great surprise to all who knew him, and his circle of acquaintances was a large one. He was a native of Croyden, Surrey, England, and was about sixty years of age. He came to British Columbia in 1862 and went to the mines. There he was known to nearly everyobdy in the district. On returning from the mines he made Victoria his home. He kept the Lion brewery saloon at Queen's avenue and Chambers streets for a number of years. He was president of the British Columbia St. George's Society, in which he was very popular. He was also a prominent member of the British Columbia Pioneer Society, of which he was at one time president. He was a single man, and as far as known had no relations living in this country.

LAW INTELLIGENCE.

Horne's Appeal Dismissed—Gallagher Must Be Paid for "Coaching."

The appeal in Gallagher v. Horne was continued this morning in the divisional court, before Justices Crease, McCreight and Drake, and dismissed with costs. This action, to which there is a ludicrous aspect, was brought by W. J. Gallagher against J. W. Horne, ex-M. P. P. for Vancouver, to recover $1600 for services rendered Horne in conducting an election campaign and for preparing speches. The action was tried at Vancouver before Mr. Justice Walkem and a jury, when a verdict for $200 was given and judgment entered for that amount. The defendant now moved for a new trial, on the grounds, among others, that the learned judge neglected to tell the jury that if the matter was made doubtful in their minds by the evidence they ought to find for the defendant; that the learned judge was in error in refusing to allow defendant's counsel to continue his cross-examination of the plaintiff and that the learned judge prejudiced the jury.

The appeal was also on the further ground that the plaintiff having made an assignment for the benefit of his creditors could not sue in his own name. The assignment, however, was not registered. The defendant denied any contract, and further claimed that the plaintiff was barred by the election regulation act.

Judgment was pronounced at once after the close of the argument, the appeal being dismissed with costs.

Mr. Justice Crease said in regard to the objection that evidence of value had not been presented to the jury it had been met by the fact that several of the speeches had been presented to the jury. As to the question of proof of contract, there was an offer followed up by employment and practically payment on account.

Mr. Justice McCreight said there was no good reason for sending the case down for a new trial, and even if there was he did not think the defendant would get any good by it.

Mr. Justice Drake concurred, and said regarding damages that the jury are the assessors, but where special damages have to be proved only nominal damages are given unless special are proved.

An appeal re Northern Shipping Company stands over to the next divisional court pending a settlement.

The admiralty action, Ward v. the ship Yosemite, will be resumed on Monday, as Mr. Justice Crease is engaged with the full court and divisional court work. Yesterday the case for the defence was closed.

Priestley's Dress Fabrics

In the long run it is the quality of the material that will determine the success of a lady's costume. Every lady who has at all studied the matter knows this. Priestley's Black Dress Goods are the best that the market affords. That is conceded on all hands. The ladies of Great Britain cordially acknowledge it. The American ladies prefer Priestley's dress fabrics to French. Our Canadian ladies are now asking for them. They wear better than other goods; but their great charm consists in a peculiar richness and softness of appearance, and a flexibility which enables them to drape in the costume with that suggestion of flow and rhythm which it is the dream of all tasteful women to realise.

DUST'S PART IN NATURE.

An Important Factor in Most Atmospheric Phenomena.

When a ray of sunlight falls through an aperture into a darkened room it is rendered visible as far as it extends. What we actually see, however, is not the ray of light but the particles of float- however, the vapor retains its watery appear, at first glance, that the part played by dust particles in nature is of great scientific or general interest; as a matter of fact, however, they play a most important role. Dust is an important factor in almost every phenomenon of the earth's atmosphere. In the first place it is due to the dust that the heavens are blue. When we lift our eyes to the vaulted arch above us we see sunlight reflected by every particle of dust; there is nothing but the dust between us and the sun to transmit its light to us. Light traverses all gases, no matter what their chemical composition, in straight lines, and is invisible. The dust intercepts and reflects it on all sides, and makes the whole atmosphere luminous in the same manner as it makes the track of the sun's rays visible in a darkened room.

Without dust there would be no blue firmament; the heaven would be blacker than we see it on moonless nights. On this black background the glowing sun would shine out sharply, and the same sharp contrast of intense light and deep shadow would characterize the surface of the earth. There would be nothing to subdue its sharp contrast but the moon and stars, which would remain visible by day. The illumination of the earth would be similar to that which we observe when looking at the moon through a telescope; for the moon has no atmospheric envelope and consequently no dust in suspension. It is due entirely to the dust that we enjoy our soft, uniformly diffused daylight, for which our eyes are especially adapted; and it is the dust which contributes so much to the beauty of the landscape.

But, while the foregoing explains how the dust makes the whole vault of heaven light, it does not explain why it is chiefly the blue rays of the white sunlight that are reflected, and, only to small extent, the green, yellow and red rays.

This is dependent on the size of the dust particles. It is only the finest of them that are borne by the air currents in every stratum of air, and it is only these fine, widely diffused dust particles that are of any significance in this connection. Now let us consider the mechanism of light and the extreme shortness of the other waves which constitute its essence. These waves, although microscopically small, vary considerable in length. The fine atmospheric dust includes many particles capable of reflecting green and yellow, and still fewer large enough to influence the long red ethereal waves. The red light, consequently, passes through a great majority of dust particles, comparatively unhindered; the blue rays, on the contrary, are intercepted and diffused, and so become visible. This is the reason that the finest dust—and so, too, the firmament—appear blue. You may observe that the wreath that curls upward from the burning end of a cigar is blue, while the smoke drawn through and exhaled is whitish. The particles in the latter case have united and become large enough to reflect white light. So, too, in the country on a clear day the sky is blue, but in the city it appears whitish, because of the greater number of dust particles in the air. It is especially on mountain heights that the air is intensely blue, because the rarified atmosphere supports only the finest dust particles. At great heights the sky would be almost black if there were no dust particles in suspension. We see it grow pale as we look at the lower strata of air toward the horizon.

But why is the sky in Italy and the tropics so much deeper blue than with us? Is the dust finer? As a fact, it really is. Not that finer dust rises there, but in our climate the dust particles are soon saturated with white vapor, which makes them coarser. In warmer regions, however, the vapor retains its watery character, and does condense on the floating dust. It is not until the aerial currents have borne it up to higher and colder regions that it is condensed to clouds.

This brings us to the most important role played by dust in our atmosphere; its influence in determining rainfall, due to the fact that vapor fluidifies upon the dust particles.

It may be accepted as beyond question that, of all the water evaporated by the sun from the surface of land and sea, not one drop returns but has condensed upon a particle of dust as a nucleus. This is easily demonstrated. We fill a large flask with air which has been filtered through cotton waddings until all the original dust is driven out and the flask is full of dustless air. Into this dustless air turn a current of steam from a kettle, and you will find it transparent, and, therefore, invisible. Not so with the air of the room, which will associate with steam. The only thing noticeable is that the inner walls of the flask begin to drop; the vapor condenses here as it cooles, because there is nothing else for it to condense on. But blow ordinary dust-laden air into the flask, and the vapor at once assumes the familar cloudy appearance, due to its condensation on the dust particles; and it begins to rain in the flask. The reason for this it that the vapor condenses on the dust particles and freights them until they sink as raindrops.

Without dust, then, we would have no fog, no clouds, no rain, no snow, no brilliant-hued sunsets, no curlean sky. The surface of the earth itself, the trees, the houses, along with man and beast, would be the only objects on which the vapor could condense, and these would begin to drip whenever the air was cooled sufficiently. In winter everything would be covered with a crust of ice. Our clothes would become saturated with water condensing upon them. Umberllas would be of no avail. The vapor-laden atmosphere, moreover, would penetrate to our rooms and condense upon the walls and furniture. In short, the world we live in would be quite another world if there were no dust.

Since scientist began to realize the important part played by dust in the economy of nature, measures have been taken to count the particles in a given space. In London and Paris, at the surface, a cubic centimeter has been found to contain nearly a quarter of a million particles; on the top of the Eiffel Tower there are about as many, while in the higher Alps there are only about 200 particles to the centimeter. A Great deal of the dust at high altitudes is cosmic dust consisting, like the meteorites, of carbon and iron.—Die Gartenlaube.

THE CHILD OF MURDERERS.

Scientists Interested in the Case of Little Arthur Meyer.

A little two-year-old lad who is now residing in this city, is causing no end of speculation, controversy and discussion among our wisest and most erudite thinkers and scientists, says the New York Recorder. The little fellow, all ignorant of the interest his existence has aroused among the wise men of the greatest city of the western world, pursues the even tenor of his ways, lisping out the words he is now learning first how to use, building houses with his blocks and then knocking them down again, and playing hide and seek and other children's games with those who are set to watch over him. He is a very handsome child, and despite the fear that his existence has engendered in the minds of our great men as to what his future will be, he is a happy, tractable and interesting boy and is very popular with all those who know him. He is precocious, too, and demonstrates the possession of a brain and will power of by no means ordinary character. At times the little fellow is imperious in his commands, and if not obeyed he at once sets about to make trouble.

He is a light-hearted little fellow, with a pair of very intelligent and impressive blue eyes, a head so well shaped and features so clearly chiseled that seeing him one would perforce exclaim: "What a pretty child!" His mind seems to run to music and languages. Despite his tender years he has already picked up several words of English, French and German, which he has heard used, and invariably remembers the words he has heard used, and repeats them, using them with rare intelligence. If he is playing with his toys and a hand-organ stopping in front of the window begins to grind out its discordant attempts at music, the little chap drops his playthings and enjoins silence upon any and everyone who may be in the room where he is, and hastening to the window listens in an ecstacy of delight. Then he claps his hands, as if in applause over the treat to his senses.

A bright promising child, one would say. What is there in this boy to cause speculation and discussion and controversy among the gray-haired and spectacled men of science? Why should they be more interested in watching the future of this child than of any other equally bright, precocious and interesting boy?

That which causes their especial interest in the lad and which has aroused among them the discussion over him is the fact that some of the most celebrated thinkers of the period have declared that it is more than probable that there is born in this happy, bright-faced, intelligent little member of the human race a tendency to commit murder, and that unless by his training and environment that tendency is eradicated and overcome, the probabilities are that before the lad has long passed the period of maturity he will be arraigned at the bar of justice, charged with the commission of some terrible crime.

The name this boy bears is Arthur Meyer. Recently his father was sent to Sing Sing prison for life, after his conviction not long ago of the murder of Ludwig Brandt, who a jury of his peers declared he poisoned for the purpose of swindling the life insurance companies in which he had persuaded Brandt to take out policies of insurance.

The mother of the child, who figured so frequently in the episodes which were connected with the memorable trial and conviction of Dr. Meyer, is now a prisoner in the Tombs, awaiting her trial on an indictment charging her with active participation in the crime of which her husband has been convicted. Her trial, the district attorney declares, will take place during the current month, and exactly the same evidence was adduced in convicting Dr. Meyer will be arrayed against the woman. The peculiar feature that interests the scientists is the fact that this child came into being in an atmosphere of conspiracy against human life. His birth occurred a few weeks subsequent to the consummation of the conspiracy to kill the unfortunate Brandt, and during the whole year before his birth there was being carried out the plot to poison the victim whom Dr. Meyer had selected.

There is no subject to which scientists are to-day devoting more thought and research than to that of the laws of heredity and prenatal influence. Concerning these subjects interesting articles, in which the thought of the world was concentrated, have lately appeared in the press.

It was shown that a mother's devotion to study during the year preceding the birth of her child would influence it in after life to studiousness; that a musical mother may, by proper care, give the tastes of her children a trend in that direction and so on. This being true, it is not surprising that scientists will wonder what the child created and born in the very midst of murderous plots will develope into.

In the case of the bright little fellow who has been born to Dr. Meyer and his wife scientists agree that if the boy is carefully reared it is more than probable he will become a good and useful member of society; but the greatest care, they say, should be taken that his rearing his training and his instruction are of such a character that whatever evil tendencies may have been his unhappy birthright will be thoroughly eliminated and eradicated.

Dr. Allen Fitch, the expert in mental diseases and chief examiner in lunacy of the Bellevue Hospital staff, is of the opinion, too, that great care should be taken in the training of this little fellow. "I am a thorough believer," said Dr. Fitch, "in the laws of heredity, and I believe also that almost any inherent tendency or inclination can be eliminated from the character by careful training."

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT STATION

A Proposition Submitted to the Council by the Sayward Mill Company.

Estimate by Which the City Could Save Several Thousand Dollars a Year.

The proposition submitted by the Sayward mill company to supply steam and a site for the electric light station, is fully set forth in the two letters written by the president of the company to the mayor and aldermen. The letters follow:

Victoria, B. C., May 30, 1894.

To His Worship the Mayor and the Hon. Aldermen of the City of Victoria:

Gentlemen—Understanding that you are about to purchase a site and erect a plant for the lighting of the city by electricity, we would respectfully present the following proposition with estimate and figures for your consideration. About two weeks ago we addressed a communication to your honorable body, which was handed to the lighting committee. We do not know whether it has been called to your attention or whether you have decided to consider it or not. We will furnish you with a site sufficiently large for the erection of a building for your engine, dynamos and electrical appliances. We will also furnish you with steam for your engines in sufficient quantity to run them satisfactorily. We do not know the amount of steam or number of horse power you want, but think it will be about 200 horse power at the present time. We will furnish you with site as above mentioned and steam sufficient to run 200 horse power engines for lighting purposes for the sum of $500 per month, you to furnish us with free water.

We submit the following figures to show you that the cost to the city would be very much less by accepting our proposal. We have estimated on a basis of five years to show you the difference in cost to the city for that period because a steam plant of tubular boilers will not last longer than five years.

ESTIMATE.

Approximate cost to the city for steam plant and operating the same for five years by the city purchasing their own plant and operating the same:

Cost of land for site about.....	$12,000 00
Cost of boilers and fittings exclusive of engines, 200 h.p.....	8,000 00
Interest on investment, $20,000 for five years at 4 1-2 per cent, compounded every six months.	4,984 03
Premium on insurance for five years and interest at 4 1-2 per cent.	2,744 18
Repairs to plant each year, 10 per cent. of first cost for five years	4,000 00
Three men, $225 per month for five years.....	13,500 00
Four tons of cheapest coal or screenings per day at $3 per ton for five years.....	21,600 00
Water for five years at 50 cents per month	3,000 00
Total cost to the city for five years	$69,828 21
Cost to the city if you accept our proposal at $500 per month for five years	$30,000 00
Saving to the city for five years	$39,828 21

If the city should require more steam we would furnish it up to 1000 horse power at additional cost. We think our proposition deserves your consideration for the reason that it would save to the city a very large sum of money. Of course we are not making this proposal out of charity to the city. We expect to make some little money out of it if you should accept our proposal but we think that you will readily see that the city would be by far the greatest gainer.

We would be pleased to meet your honorable body at any time and submit our proposition more fully if you so desire.

Respectfully submitted,

Victoria, B. C., June 4th, 1894.

To His Worship the Mayor and the Hon. Aldermen of the City of Victoria:

Gentlemen—Referring to our letter of May 30th which we submitted for your consideration we take pleasure in amending our proposal so that we may overcome the objections raised by your honorable body. If for any cause we should cease to furnish the city with steam, we will give the city an option to purchase that portion of lot 1264 forming that triangular piece of land at the intersection of Store street with Constance street (see map hereto attached). This would give the city an abundance of room for the space underneath the bridge can be used for the storing of fuel, etc. It would give the city about 190 feet frontage on Store street and about 120 on Constance street. This would make the city an excellent site if in the future they should determine to erect their own steam plant. The space underneath the bridge can be utilized as coal bunkers. The engines and boilers can be placed in basement of building and the dynamos and other electric appliances placed on floor above basement and on a level with Store street. Scows with fuel can be landed near to the bridge or under it as you may wish. As stated in our former letter we will supply the city with steam for their engines at the price stated for five years or for any number of years agreed upon. If for any cause we should cease to furnish steam to the city we will sell the said land at a price to be hereinafter agreed upon by arbitration or appraisement, we will select one appraiser, the city one, and if the two cannot agree upon a price they are to select a third person. The price given by a majority of said appraisers to be the price paid at such time to us by the city. If your honorable body would prefer, we will sell outright to the city now the same piece of property for the sum of $5000 cash. Should you prefer we will sell you that portion of lot 218 facing Constance street and running back towards the harbor 125 feet for the sum of $5000 cash. We would be pleased to meet your honorable body at any time to talk over the matter more fully if you so desire.

CANADIAN NOTES.

News of Eastern Canada in Short Paragraphs.

Mr. Conmee may be declared elected in West Algoma owing to illegal returns.

J. W. Murton has been sworn in as sheriff of the county of Wentworth.

Bryam & Company's stave and hoop mill at Raleigh was destroyed by fire. A great portion of the stock was also destroyed. The loss is ten thousand, insurance unknown.

The Kingston Whig says J. M. Metcalfe, M. P., will shortly be appointed postoffice inspector at Kingston. Friends of Mr. Metcalfe say, however, that what he is really after is the position of warden of the penitentiary.

Thomas Crowley, a farmer of Otonabee township, reports a serious outbreak of anthrax among the cows of his dairy. Four have died and several others are fatally affected. The matter has been communicated to the Ontario department of agriculture.

The keystone of the arch of the new union station in Toronto was laid by E. W. Wragge, local manager of the Grand Trunk railway. The arch is the largest in Canada and presents a very fine appearance. The building will be ready for the roof early in September.

The American railway strike is having a serious effect upon the Ontario fruit and vegetable markets. The receipts of American green stuffs are usually very large in Toronto at this season of the year, but within the last few days supplies have practically ceased and prices have nearly doubled. Dealers have been notified that further shipments from the southwest cannot be guaranteed.

It is rumored that Peter Ryan is about to retire from the registrarship of Toronto. Should the report be true the position will probably be filled by W. T. R. Preston, librarian of the house, while S. J. Basildo, private secretary to Sir Oliver Mowat, will go into the library. D. E. Cameron, deputy provincial secretary is also leaving the service and his resignation is practically in. W. W. Wood, son of S. C. Wood, will most likely succeed him.

Toronto's vital statistics for the half year ending June 30 show some peculiar features. For instance, the births were 2058 against 2057 for the same period in 1893, a difference of but one. Even in the matter of marriages the citizens seem to have kept closely to the average. There were 690 marriages in the past half year against 608 in 1893. The returns show a decrease of more than 25 per cent. in the number of deaths. There were only 1447 this year, against 1905 last, a reduction of 548.

A Halifax dispatch says: J. Blowers and Albert Atkins, both Nova Scotians, belonging to the schooner Amy Houson, of Boston, were landed here this morning. They were picked up 35 miles east of Sambro yesterday by the schooner Mabel Howard. They were attending their trawls on Saturday evening on La Have banks. It was foggy at the time and they lost their vessel. After rowing for her for some time, looking for her without avail, they decided to row for the land. They were pretty well exhausted and had suffered intensely. They had had no food and but a quart of water in 48 hours.

Louis Chastellaine, a well known resident of Edmonton in the old days and more lately of Prince Albert, died at the latter place on Friday morning in the 86th year of his age. Mr. Chastellaine was a native of the Saskatchewan valley, the son of a French-Canadian clerk in the Hudson Bay Company's service. The deceased was educated in Montreal and entered the service of the Hudson Bay Company trading shop at Fort Pitt. From Pitt he came to Edmonton, where he was in charge of a trading shop until about 1888. He was then transferred to the Hudson Bay Company's post at St. Albert, of which he remained in charge until the post was given up. He then retired from the service of the company and opened a small trading post on his own account at St. Albert.—Edmonton Bulletin.

THE TURKISH CAPITAL.

Its Capture Would be a Work of No Small Magnitude.

There can be no question that it would be perfectly in agreement with the usage of civilized nations for Russia to commence war against Turkey with an attempt to seize on Constantinople by a sudden and unlooked for attack; though it may be very well questioned whether Constantinople would necessarily fall in consequence of the appearance of a hostile fleet before it. Twelve years ago the British fleet could silence the batteries of Alexandria, but could not take possession of the town.

The defences of Constuntinople are enormously superior to those of Alexandria, and the Turkish ironclads cannot be left altogether out of the reckoning; but even if these are overcome the Turkish soldier may be relied on for obstinacy in the defence of a position, and the hostile occupation of a town with a million of inhabitants is not a task which a general on shore would lightly undertake; to an admiral unsupported by a land force, it is an absolute impossibility.

The capture of Constantinople by a coup de main of such a nature is scarcely conceivable; and though, with command of the sea, any number of men might be landed on the beach between Derkos and the Bosphoros, it is not with a small army that such an enterprise could be undertaken, and the quantity of shipping required for the transportation of a very modest one would preclude all attempt at surprise. There is certainly not shipping in the Black Sea sufficient for the transport of forty thousand men, a force ludicrously inadequate for the task.—The Edinburgh Review.

P. R. Stanwood, of the local A. R. U., predicts that overland trains on the Sunset route which left here yesterday will be tied up to-day in Arizona and the passengers will be left to suffer on the desert.

Union Town, Pa., July 11.—A coke train on the B. & O. was derailed by strikers last night. No one was hurt.

Scottdale, July 11.—Strikers were fired on by negroes and two injured while marching by the Summit plant. The strikers then charged the works, the negroes fired on them, and then together with the deputies fled. Several hundred shots were fired. Two negroes were fatally wounded.

San Jose, Cal., July 11.—Company C, naval battalion, N. G. C., arrived at 2.30 this morning and are now doing duty with the militia. At the depot all is quiet and trains are running.

Washington, D. C., July 11.—The senate to-day adopted Daniels' resolution endorsing the acts of the president regarding the strike. This is a substitute for Peffer's resolution, which caused so much debate yesterday.

Oakland, July 11.—The Southern Pacific company is making preparations this morning to open the narrow gauge line for business, and to that end an engine at the Alameda pier is being fired under protection of the police and deputy sheriffs. Everything at the broad gauge mole is quiet. Superintendent Wilder persistently states that nothing will be done there to-day.

Los Angeles, July 11.—The federal grand jury is now investigating the cases of several strikers who are alleged to have committed depredations last night. It cannot be determined now what the charges against them are, but it is understood information has been filed by the United States district attorney of a serious nature. It is understood the deputy marshals will undertake to arrest a large number of strikers to-day on charges of obstructing the mails and contempt of court.

Sacramento, July 11.—Shortly after the shooting General Dickson notified Colonel Graham of the presence of the strikers on the other side of the river, and the latter promised to send a company of cavalry over to disperse them. The belligerent strikers are said to be sharpshooters from Dunsmuir. Among the state troops stationed at the river is Company G of the Third, which has been under court-martial. They begged General Dickson to be kept to the front to be given an opportunity to redeem themselves, and one of the men declared that they would be willing to be shot by their comrades if they faltered in the performance of their duty.

Altogether there are 750 men under command of Gen. Dickinson on the river front. There are about the same number of regulars at the depot, consisting of three batteries of Fifth United States Artillery, one of First Infantry, two troops of Fourth United States Cavalry under Col. Young, and about 125 marines from Mare Island.

Youngstown, O., July 11.—The street railway employees have struck. Cars are tied up.

Toledo, O., July 11.—This morning finds nine roads here tied up. Everything is quiet to-day.

THE ELECTIONS.

Rogers and Adams Elected in Cariboo—Opposition Candidate in Cassiar.

The two government candidates, Messrs. Irving and Dalby, who are seeking the one seat in Cassiar, are not going to have it all their own way. Polling takes place at various places on different dates, extending over the next two months.

Late dispatches from Cariboo give Messrs. Rogers and Adams a majority, there having been a mistake in the returns from Barkerville, which gave Dr. Watt 102 instead of 42. The returns are:
